

2009 EarthScope National Meeting: Post-meeting Field Trip to Snake River Plain and Yellowstone

On May 17, 2009, the EarthScope field trip was at Biscuit Basin in Yellowstone National Park. Park Geologist Hank Heasler was explaining about rare events known as “hydrothermal explosions.”

Guess what happened next

Photos by:

Bob Lillie

EarthScope Education/Outreach Manager Oregon State University

www.earthscope.org

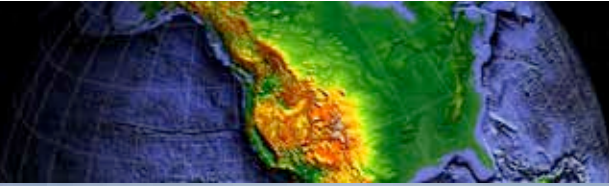

Hydrothermal Explosion, Biscuit Basin Yellowstone National Park, May 17, 2009

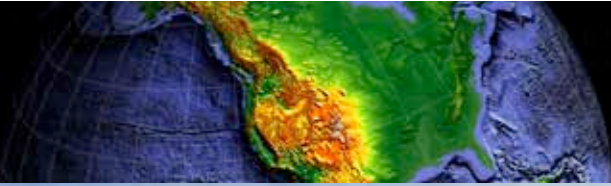

Hydrothermal Explosion, Biscuit Basin Yellowstone National Park, May 17, 2009

Hydrothermal Explosion, Biscuit Basin Yellowstone National Park, May 17, 2009

Hydrothermal Explosion, Biscuit Basin Yellowstone National Park, May 17, 2009

Hydrothermal Explosion

Biscuit Basin

Yellowstone National Park

May 17, 2009

Robert J. Lillie

earth
scope
www.earthscope.org

Hydrothermal Explosion

Biscuit Basin

Yellowstone National Park

May 17, 2009

Robert J. Lillie

earth
scope
www.earthscope.org

Hydrothermal Explosion

Biscuit Basin

Yellowstone National Park

May 17, 2009

Robert J. Lillie

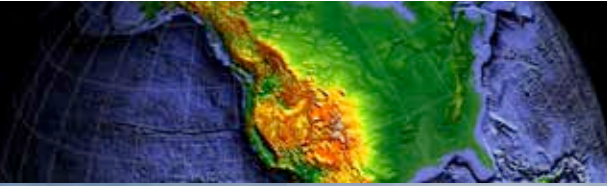

earth
scope
www.earthscope.org

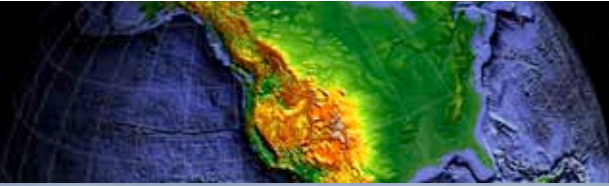

Hydrothermal Explosion, Biscuit Basin Yellowstone National Park, May 17, 2009

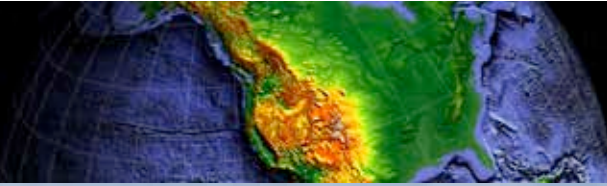

Hydrothermal Explosion, Biscuit Basin Yellowstone National Park, May 17, 2009

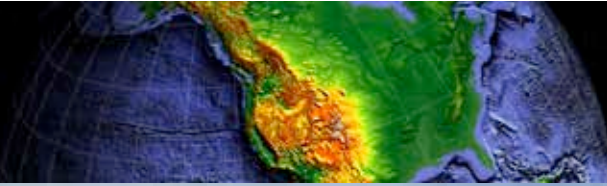

Hydrothermal Explosion, Biscuit Basin Yellowstone National Park, May 17, 2009

Hydrothermal Explosion, Biscuit Basin Yellowstone National Park, May 17, 2009

Hydrothermal Explosion, Biscuit Basin Yellowstone National Park, May 17, 2009

